

ClickPay Expands Sales Team Leadership with Strategic Hire of Brian Ball

ClickPay, the leader in innovative and integrated real estate receivables, announced the appointment of Brian Ball as a National Sales Director.

HACKENSACK, N.J. (PRWEB) February 12, 2018 -- ClickPay, the leader in innovative and integrated real estate receivables, announced the appointment of Brian Ball as a National Sales Director. He represents the first in a number of strategic hires to support ClickPay's North American expansion. Brian Ball will play a key role in driving national sales strategies to generate demand and achieve another year of record growth.

"I look forward to consulting with Property Managers to deliver customized receivables solutions founded on ClickPay's best-in-class payment platform," stated Brian Ball.

Widely recognized as an industry expert, Brian Ball boards ClickPay with over 15 years residential and commercial real estate market experience. He was most recently the National Accounts Director for Nexus Systems, a top provider of AP automation software for real estate companies. Prior to Nexus Systems, Brian Ball was the Director of Sales for the Southeast for MRI Software. His record of success selling software to Property Management Companies to streamline real estate payments will be valuable to ClickPay, its clients, and future clients.

Tom Kiernan, CEO of ClickPay, stated, "We are excited for Brian to join the team. As an industry veteran in architecting payment solutions for Property Management Companies, Brian brings a deep level of industry knowledge and client expertise that complements the way we help our clients transact and interact with their tenants and homeowners."
